Scholarship Information

Scholarship applications are due Tuesday, April 5. Because they require letters of recommendation, a personal statement essay, and more questions, students should allow themselves ample time to work on their applications. We have four different scholarships specifically for those students with a focus on aging regardless of department. This includes Aging Studies minors and MSG students. The College of Humanities and Social Sciences has even more. Students can complete scholarships via the Scholarships app found in their Student Portal. More information on how to apply can be found at hss.fullerton.edu/agingstudies/08_scholarships or hss.fullerton.edu/scholarships.

Happy March! Many of us are working so hard to finish midterms; keep up the fantastic work! Try this Where's Waldo puzzle for a little mental break.

Students at CSUF and beyond are experiencing mental health challenges in record numbers. Please familiarize yourself with campus resources in case you find yourself struggling in any way. More information can be found at: fullerton.edu/caps

About

The mission of the CSU Fullerton Aging Studies Academic Program is to provide the learning, research, and practice opportunities that produce outstanding gerontologists who meet the needs of the aging population. In accordance with this goal, the CSUF aging studies academic program offers a Master of Science in Gerontology and an undergraduate minor in Aging Studies. These cross-disciplinary courses of study offer students knowledge, perspectives, and expertise from academia and the field.
