

 Attention undergrad and grad students:

Call for Papers

Become a published author in The American Papers

- The American Papers is the student-run journal of the CSUF American Studies department
- Choose your best essay, paper, assignment, or creative work that you completed for an American Studies class between Summer 2023- Spring 2024 to submit for consideration.
- Undergrad and grad students of any major are eligible, so long as the submitted work was for an AMST class

How to submit

Please submit your work to americanpaperscsuf@gmail.com by June 7, 2024.

Because all submissions are evaluated anonymously, you will need to send 2 separate files:

1. The paper. Please take your name off the body of the paper, assignment, or creative work. Include only the title and the course for which it was written.
2. A separate cover sheet including the following information:
 - your name
 - your email and phone contact information for summer and fall 2024
 - the title of the paper
 - the course, professor, and semester in which the work was written
 - the prompt for the paper or assignment

Please note that The American Papers does not accept previously published submissions.
