

Christmas Holidays in Hong Kong

Hong Kong has one of the world's most festive Christmas. Hong Kong people have celebrated Christmas perhaps the most grandly in all East Asia. There is a two-day public holiday, and people usually enjoy dry, mild, and even sunny weather for Christmas.

Lan Kwai Fong

It's big, it's crowded, everyone is drunk in the streets and it's great fun.

Lan Kwai Fong is always party central. Many bars, clubs and restaurants you can hang out or you can simply grab some drinks from the 7-11 and enjoy them outside in the streets (totally legal in Hong Kong).

Christmas Displays

They're everywhere!
Christmas decorations and displays are ready by mid-November for both indoor (shopping malls) and outdoors areas.

One of the most beautiful ones is the almost 65 feet-tall Christmas tree in Statue Square, Central, right in the heart of the business district.

Hong Kong Christmas Lights Festival

The waterfront along Victoria Harbor showcases more than a dozen of these pieces of light art. The landmark buildings in Central and Tsim Sha Tsui districts will be lit up with special Christmas and New Year designs.

TravelerFolio.com

Genuine Christmas Food

In Hong Kong it can be hard to find authentic Christmas cuisine—after all, most people will make reservation at hotel for a massive Christmas buffet meal or having their private parties at restaurants to celebrate their holidays.

Christmas Attractions

Hong Kong's biggest theme parks and tourist attractions all host huge Christmas events, with lights, Christmas trees, carolers, and even snow!

Hong Kong Disneyland and Ocean Park both put on full-blown Christmas shows, and Ngong Ping 360 held a 'Snowy Christmas,' with an outdoor ice skating rink.

Christmas Markets

The annual Stanley Plaza Christmas Market has more than 80 booths selling food, drink, and Christmas goodies in this quaint seaside town. Discovery Bay on Lantau Island also puts on Christmas market in its outdoor piazza, while Taikoo Place transforms its Tong Chong Street Market into a winter wonderland.

Christmas Shopping

Hong Kong is well known for its high quality jewelry with creative design and exquisite workmanship with reasonable prices.

There's huge satisfaction in getting the best value deal for goods at street markets like Mong Kok Ladies' Market and Temple Street.

Wishing all the best to everyone this Holiday Season! Stay Safe!

Stella Lee